CUMBERLAMD GAP PARK PROPOSITION GROWS IN FAVOR

Interior Dpeartment Representative to Inspect Site Immediately—State Geologist Praises Beauty of Gap

URGES ESTABLISHMENT OF LINCOLN NATIONAL PARK

That the Cumberland Gap park proposition has been referred by the land committee to the Secretary of Interior for a report and that the Secretary has promised to send some one here immediately to investigate the the matter, was stated in a letter just received from Representative Robsion. The proposition is growing in favor throughout the state as well as in Washington, a number of circumstances indicate.

The following item from the Louisville Herald quotes Dr. William R. Jillson, state geologist.

"There is perhaps no region in Kentucky which combines in the same degree the absorbing geologic, historic scenic and climatic features found at Cumberland Gap,' said Dr. Willard R. Jillson, director and state geologist, in an illustrated lecture on "Opportunities of the Southern Appalachians" to Boy Scouts of Frankfort.

'One of the two real mountains of elevation within the state, the Cumberland Range, had it not been greatly reduced by erosion relentless since the close of Paleozoic times, would undoubtedly be 6,000 to 8,000 feet high," declared Dr. Jillson. "The Pinnacle," he said, "formed of basal coal measures, sandstones and located slightly to the east of the Gaps, 2,510 feet above sea level. Elevations ranging up to a little more than 3,000 feet are to be found in close proximity."

"Cumberland Gap," Dr. Jilsn said, "is Kentucky's most historic gateway. Today it is the most important gateway to seaboard cities of the South. It will become of increasing importance as the years go by. Through it have passed each in their turn, wild animals of the region including the buffalo who were the first road builders, marauding Shawanees and Cherokees and the early explorers of Kentucky including Dr. Thomas Walker, Daniel Boone, Colonel Henderson and others. Subsequently through this age old water gap passed countless thousands of pioneers, fearless men, resolute women and helpless babies: all with their faces turned to the west the pictured Bluegrass region far beyond.

"Today it is proposed to erect within the Cumberland Gap region a beautiful tristate park, Lincoln National Park as it will be called will comprise parts of Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia. The spot is one of the most scenic and healthful in the Southern Appalachians.

"On clear days one can see upward of 100 miles over a maze of forested highlands which form the headwaters of the Cumberland, Tennessee and Kentucky rivers. With the completion of the Eastern Dixie Highway from Cincinnati and Lexington to Knoxville Tenn., countless thousands of tourists will annually pass through the Cumberland Gap.

"If Lincoln National Park, situated at the Gap becomes a reality, as Representative J. M. Robsions bill now in Congress proposes, this spot will become famous throughouth the South."

SPLENDID P. T. A. MUSICAL PROGRAM

Miss Seay's Pupils Entertain Last Night—Vote to Redecorate Auditorium

Musical program of unusual merit featured the Parent Teachers association meeting at the high school auditorium last night. Perhaps the largest crowd that has ever attended one of the meetings was present, the entire auditorium being filled.

Motion was proposed and adopted that the auditorium be redecorated, the matter of raising funds to pay the expense devolving upon the presient. It was also decided that posters be made by the pupils and sent to the state and national P. T. A. meeting at Louisville April 23 to 29. Miss Wilhelmine Marx is to have charge of this work. The question of electing new officers now so that they may attend the meeting at Louisville was dropped no action being taken.

Each of the musical acts and drills received loud applause from the audience. Miss Lillian Seay who had charge of the musical program, accompanied most of the acts with the piano.

The flag drill, accompanied by the song, "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean," was well acted. The Japanese chorus, "Miss Cherry Blossom's Party," and the appropriate Japanese pantomime was very entertaining. The act entited "Come Join Our Dance" was well played and contained sketches of folk and classic dances. The operetta, "Greeting the Gypsy Queen,' sung by the girls' glee club was a splendid success. Miss Ruth McClure, Mis Winnie Pippin and Miss Alice Gloster were soloists.

The talk by Mrs. Mary Brown on "Progres of Schol Music" was brief but instructive. Music as a subject is growing in importance, she said, and deserves the cooperation of the school, the parent and the pupil.

Mrs. Helen Forrester presided in the absence of Mrs. M. G. Hubbard. Rev W K McClure opened and closed the meeting with prayer.

NEIGHBORS TO LAW OVER "WHEN THREAT IS REALLY A THREAT"

Does the statement that you will send a man to the cemetery constitute a threat within the legal meaning of the term? The decision of a police court case tried Tuesday hinged upon the court's interpretation of the statement.

Defendant denied that his statement had been couched in those terms, but admitted that he threw out vague hints about plaintiff's future possession of "six feet of ground on the hill." He also confessed to having used rather strong adjectives but these the court held, were not "consing."

The court did not grant the peace bond asked by the plaintiff but admonished the two old men to go back home and live as neighbors should. From the attitude of the two litigants as they left the city hall it is very doubtful if these instructions will be carried out.

MAY IMPLICATE MRS. NOFFSINGER IN SLAYING DIRECTLY

Ollie Gibbons Charged With Murder By Attorney, Opening Trial Asks Imposition of Death Penalty

QUESTIONS INDICATE WIDOW MAY BE ACCUSED OF CRIME

By Associated Press

HENDERSON, Feb. 20.—Talbot Berry, commonwealth's attorney, in his opening statement to the jury here today in the case against Ollie Gibbons, charged with the murder of Gus Noffsinger, coal mine manager, last December, asked for the imposition of the death penalty. He told the jury he would prove the defendant boasted Noffsinger "fell like a log when I hit him." C. B. Noffsinger, father of the slain man, was the first witness today. He found the body and described its position. Mrs. Noffsinger, widow of the slain man, is expected to take the witness stand today. Spectators continue to crowd the court room.

Considerable surprise was evidenced at the trend of questions asked Noffsinger. The defendant's attorney asked him if wounds on the dead man's head were made by a strong man or a weaker person. A thrill ran through the court room which took the questions to indicate Gibbons was preparing to implicate Mrs. Noffsinger directly in the slaying. Mrs. Noffsinger, mother of the slain man, was the second witness of the day for the prosecution. Gibbons, it is fully expected, will go on the stand, probably tomorrow.

NEW CAR SERVICE STARTS TODAY

Pullman and Parlor Car Additions For Convenience of Harlan and Lynch Travel

The new Pullman car service between Louisville and Lynch on the L. & N. starts tonight and the parlor car service between Corbin and Lynch starts tomorrow. Both of these additions were made by the railroad for the special convenience of travelers to or from Harlan and Lynch.

The Pullman comes out of Louisville on No. 21, is cut off at Pineville, then put on the early morning Harlan train that starts here. It then goes to Lynch and comes back to Middlesboro on the train that egts in here about 9 o'clock. It is then attached to No. 24 which leaves here at 10:45 for Louisville. The special feature of this is that passengers can get on the sleeper at 9 o'clock or as soon as it gets in here from Harlan, thus getting to bed almost two hours earlier than formerly.

The parlor car gets out of Corbin in the evening on No. 23 and is transferred to the Harlan and Lynch line at Pineville. It comes back on the morning train from Lynch, is set off again at Pineville, to be picked up by No. 12 and taken back to Harlan. A THOUGHT

And Jesus said unto them, Yea, have ye never read, Out of the mouth of babes and sucklings thou hast perfected praise?—Mat. 24:16.

Children are God's apostles, day by day sent forth to preach of love and hope and peace.—Lowell.

NEWSPAPERS AND THE PUBLIC

"Every time I look at a newspaper I see scare headines about some murder, other trugedy or divorce," a Middlesboro minister said in his pulpit Sunday. "Why don't the papers print something that is pleasant to read?"

The newspaper is a sort of public mirror from wheih is reflected the important, the unusual, the interesting occurrences of the community in which it is located, the state and the world. The amount of space accorded each news item varies, the nearness of the particular event and its importance to the readers of the news paper being the rules which govern its space and headlines.

It is the infrequency with which things occur that makes them news. Out of fifteen or twety thousand people in this vicinity, less than a dozen homocides occur each year. When one does occur it is news, it is an affair in which we are all interested and wish to know the details. Deaths from other causes occur with greater frequency which decreases their news value accordingly.

"Why don't the newspapers print somethnig pleasant?' They do, but there are so many pleasant things that happen daily that their very numbers rob them of their news value. The unusual ones get as much or more space than the tragedies. A Chicago millionaire boy works for a small wage. That's pleasant and its news. Billy Sunday is so unusual in his methods of preaching that he speaks to tens of thousands daily and thus gets whole pages in the big dailies.

The mission of the newspaper, its sacred trust, is to publish all the important news, the facts that its readers demand, in its limited space. Telegraph and telephone wires are kept hot and mails are bulging daily with news. From this mass of information all of it interesting and authentic, the editors select with care that which will please the readers. Every item that goes into this newspaper is judged by the editor to be of interest to a large number of readers.

CHILD LABOR STATISTICS

The extent to which child labor is employed in this country is shown in a pamphlet just issued by the federal children's bureau.

The 1920 census, the bureau reports showed more than 1,000,000 10 to 15 years of age were gainfully employed of whom 378,082 were less than 14 years old. The figures indicate con siderable decrease from 1910, but it is asserted that a large part of the decrease is apparant rather than real, since it was due primarily to a change in the census date from April, as in 1910, to January. In a number of occupations fewer children are employed in winter than in spring.

Even though the figures showed an actual decrease ther are still unpleasantly large. In this land of proverbial plenty we ought to be doing better by the coming men and women. In one state boys 12 years of age are permitted to do factory work, and in two others there is n age minimum.—Rockford Register Gazette.

TUESDAY

The Disciples Called to Service

"And he appointed twelve . . . that he might send them forth." Mark 3:14.

Read Mark 3 13 19.

"The master called men to him, only to send them out."

MEDITATION. Great multitudes followed Jesus. Just twelve were called to the special privilege of his constant companionship, but this was "that he might send them forth" to ministry like his. Christian privileges spell obligation for Christian service.

HYMN:

Help me the slow of heart to move,
By some clear, winning word of love,
Teach me the wayward feet to stay,
And guide them in the homeward way.

PRAYER: O God, our Heavenly Father, we thank thee for the gift of thy dear Son. Grant that we who have received him in our hearts may joyfully go forth with him on many errands. Bless those who toil for thee in far off places; comfort them in their loneliness; and unite our work to theirs. Accept our gifts; receive our prayers; and use us for the sake of thy Son Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

Adventures of The Twins

By Olive Roberts Barton

Mix Up Land was full of queer things . .

When the twins left King Eben Steven and started toward the palace of Jack Straw (who had no business to be there), they saw some wonderful sights.

The first was a baker man who was putting a large baking of bread into a stone oven. To the amazement of the Twins the next thing he did was to pile some large chunks of ice under the oven and close the door.

'I hope the oven won't get warm today and spoil my bread,' he said to the children. 'Yesterday the sun came out and the ice started to melt and the bread got sour. One can't have good bread unless he has an ice cold oven."

'How very strange'" said Nancy. 'Where we live the ovens must be hot to bake the bread.'

"Ah, hine you don't live in Mix up Land," said the baker man. "Every thing is changed around here. No doubt you make doughnuts with holes in the middle, also,

'Of course, it was Nicks turn to say. How do you make them?'

'Why we make the hole first' answered the baker man, 'and after it gets a nice shape, we put the dough out in the middle."

And how do you make pies' asked Nancy curiously.

'Square' answered the baker man. 'As square as dollars.'

'But dollars are round," said Nick.

"Not in Mix Up Land,' said the baker. 'They are square. All money is square here except paper money and paper money is made of silver, so there isn't any.'

'Oh my!' sighed Nancy. 'It's all so hard to understand.'

'Not when you are a Mix Upper.' said the baker man. But there' I've talked too much' I forgot to put salt on my sugar cookies, and the children won't buy them unless they have a thick layer of salt icing.'

"Then we'll go away and not bother you," said Nick. 'Goodby.'

Goodby,' said the baker man.

THE ONE-MAN WOMAN

By Ruth Agnes Abeling.

'I'd like to have proof that it isn't," sneered Latham. but this isn't in age of miracles—particularly where women are concerned.

'Women," he went on, 'never have been so generally commonplace as they are today, and so ready to come down to a man's standard of living. If you don't believe what I've said in regard to Alice why don't you prove or disprove it?"

"Prove it," Kate echoed.

"Certainly!" with an edged laugh. "When we finish dinner we'll drive around there—you wait while I go in. If she's about, so that I can begin a casual conversation with her, my car is yurs if she oesn't go out with me, in spite of the fact that she knows about the man at the morgue.'

'What is wrong with your car?" Kate smiled. "You seem anxious to give it away."

"On the contrary, I need it. Could n't get along without it at this particular time—but I'm sure of my ground."

'You make me wonder if this has not been prearranged! You're too sure of yourself for my peace of mind." Kate looked at him questioningly, 'but I'll go with you regardless of how rotten a trick I think it is.

"And," Kate continued lightly, "I'm going chiefly because I know you will fail!"

"I won't," dryly.

They finished dinner in silence.

Every now and then Kate glanced at the man across from her. Latham was attractive. He must have had much experience with women of the finest type. A man of his sort would have. Was his judgement of them reliable, then? Were they becoming too much like men?

Kate recalled among the women she knew those distinctly feminine and those who attempted a masculine attitude. She remembered how she had been inclined to smile as she watched the ill fitting, man copied mannerisms of the latter group.

They hadn't attracted her. They had amused her as might a child playing at grown up.

Perhaps James Latham was right. Perhaps women were sacrificing a lot of charm for a little freedom, and naturally they were changing at heart because Kate knew, all too well, how her own moods changed with the clothes she wore.

"We're off!" said Latham, as they got into the car.

'Yes," pensively.

The distance to Sing Loy's laundry was covered soon. As they pulled up in front of the low structure they heard a wailing sound, high pitched, plaintive, weird. There were no lights in the front room. But in the reflected gloom from the back, hurrying figures were visable.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem
CASH HERE
By Berton Braley

Rhino, Shekels, Cases, Jack:
Though the poets may attack.
Though the bards inveigh against it,
None the less—you may have sensed it,
In this faulty world of men
It comes in handy now and then.

Dough, Mazuma and Sesterces
May at times bring woe and curses;
Cash may make some people mock it;
Still, its jingle in the pocket
Is, I think the fact is clear,
Very pleasant to the ear.

Ducats, Dollars, Pounds and Pence
May be dross to certain gents,
As for me I must—ahem!
Say I'm very fond of them.
Though they may be filthy stuff.
Life without them's pretty tough.

Beans and Bullets, Lucre, Tin,
May be Satan's lure to sin,
Yet the Mon, the Salve, the Chink,
Has a most melodious clink,
And—all history has shown it—
Everybody likes to own it!

SYMBOLS

No more of old and marble, nor of snow
And sunlight, and vermillion would I make
My vision and my symbols, nor would take
The auroral flame of some prismatic floe.
Nor iris of the frail and lunar bow,
Flung on the shafted waterfalls that wake
The night's blue slumber in a shadowy lake—
To body forth my fantasies, and show
Communicable mystery. I would find,
In adamantine darkness of the earth
Metals untouched of any sun; and bring
Black azures of the nether sea to birth;
Or fetch the secret, splendid leaves and bind
Pllue lilies of an Atlantean spring.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

If you let a tomato stand in hot water it will peel more easily, but it will have to be chilled again if you are using it for a salad. A quicker and better way is to put in on a fork and hold it for a few seconds over a gas flame. This will loosen the skin without heating the vegetable.

IMPORTANT TO ALL WOMEN READERS OF THIS PAPER

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

The kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of ambition.

Poor heath makes you nervous, irritable, and may be despondent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine will do for them. By enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. you may receive sample size bottle by Parcel Post You can purchase medium and large size bottles at all drug stores.

TODAY'S RECIPES

EGGS

By Bertha E. Shapleigh

On the toasted half of an English muffin place a piece of boiled ham, on top of this a poached egg and over all two tablespoons of Hollandaise sauce.

To make Hollandise, put in a sauce pan the third of a half cup of butter, the yolks of two eggs and a table spoon of vinegar or lemon juice. Holding the saucepan over the hot water, but not allowing it to touch, stir the ingredients until they thicken; then add another third of the butter and, as the mixture thickens, add the remainder, stirring constantly. Salt and cayenne to taste.

The sauce should be smooth, glassy and thick enough to hold itself without running.

"J. T. Smith and Daughter" Grocery Firm's Modern Name

'J T. Smith and Daughter, Grocer' This unique firm name led to an investigation as to the part the latter part played in its management. It was found that and Daughter' was not merely a nominal or silent partner in the business but a sure enough member of the firm whose brains and capital form an integral part of the success of the store.

Mrs W C. Durham is the femmine part of the organization. Upon her devolves the responsibility of the management of the store during the absence of her father. Measuring out potatoes, selling all day suckers to kiddies getting rid of tiresome salesmen, explaining to irate customers way their orders haven't been delivered are part of her regular duties

Though Mr Smith has had the store for three years, his daughter has only recently acquired an interest in the business

'It pays to have a reliable partner during these times of the flu,' the senior member of the firm remarked 'When I am sick George takes my place and when she is sick I run the business

The store with the interesting firm name is small though it keeps a wide variety of goods. Not only groceries but also drugs household remedies and in fact almost everything that is needed in a community having no specialized store It is located at the corner of Worcester avenue and Twenty fifth street.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, at very little cost Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly, tell that you darkened your hair as it does it so naturally and evenly You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark thick and glossy and you look years younger.
